LE NARCISSE BLANC HÔTEL & SPA

PARIS, FRANCE

Le Narcisse Blanc, a 37-room boutique hotel is easily described as elegant, in the true meaning of the word. This charming, small and truly Parisian five-star hotel located in the heart of a historic neighbourhood in the 'City of Lights' (more specifically in the 7th arrondissement of Paris) is all about detail and ambiance: the artwork, architecture and furniture, of the establishment makes this hotel-spa a reference to Parisian lifestyle and a must visit.

The Parisian well-being is easily understood from the moment people enter the hotel, and one of the best assets is without any doubt the strategically positioned rooms, which overlook the Eiffel tower and other must-see sites.

Composed of silky neutrals colours such as beige, black and white, but also some light rose, sky blue and even pale gold, the hotel's ambience breathes a sense of feminism, in a very smooth and elegant way. Designed for comfort, every single room has a clear attention to detail, with a warm feeling. A delicate and inviting tour provided by the hotel concierge highlights the peaceful feeling people experience since making the first contact.

With suites on the hotel's top floor, with awesome views of the heart of Paris, it is even possible to see the Sacre-Coeur Basilica in the top of Montmartre, among other city hallmarks.

In the first floor of the hotel, one can encounter the spa, an intimate and cosy space with a slightly "Hungarian" ambience. Upon entering, one is immediately bestowed with the green reflection of an extraordinary small pool. Undoubtedly, the extremely elegant little pink sofas are the Ex-libris of this singular spa. Sampling infused water, dry fruits and nuts are some of the perks customers can benefit, alongside facials and body treatments and massages, perfect for relaxation.

During their stay, Narcisse Blanc guests can enjoy the best of in the hotel's restaurant, Cléo, a masterpiece of French cuisine hosted by the excellent Canadian Chef Zachary Caviller.
